It could be argued that too much time is spent chasing the devil around stump by our legislasession. nerves fray and tempers grow short as the busy weeks pile on each other, and such serio-comic dissertations as Health Min-Martin's on the evils of smoking provide a welcome easement.

"There was a time clared the minister on Wednesday, "when a person caught smoking was pun-ished by having boiling oil poured down his throat. An excellent punishment one o fit the crime." Mr. Strachan: "Are you oing to introduce that as

Mr. Martin: "No, although there are times when I'd cheerfully pour boiling oil on certain members of the Opposition.'

NDP voice: "Would it be British Columbia produced

Delightful

Mr. Martin (disregarding this sally): "I think smoking is a delightful habit. I thoroughly enjoyed my 30 years of incessant smoking. Finally I became so thoroughly saturated inside and out with nicotine that no one would have anything to do with me, and that's why I have NDP Arthur Turner: "I quit smoking 30 years ago. The first week I stopped, I felt 10 years younger.'

SC voice: "You grow younger all the time, any-way!"

Before the interlude of erossfloor fraternizing was ended by a peppery brouhaha over what happened to Vernon Hospital's pay cheque, the House agreed that while the young should be warned off tobacco, whe ther to smoke or not must be left to individual conscience.

Anyway, as the health and welfare minister pointed out, the potentate of his fable flirned smoke, and abolished the boiling oil penalty.

What happened to the dis-puted hospital cheque, we gathered, was that the Ver-non board diverted it from payroll to debts.

According to the Opposion, this move on Vernon by health departniggardliness which extended to withholding portions of the federal hospital

Not so, Mr. Martin insisted: the board had got itself in trouble by over-ambi-

There was more much more - with Saskatchewan medicare being dragged in by the ears, Mr. Strachan striding out of the House after a scathing reference to tripe, and NDP John Squire loosing a full-volume blast against government prac-

Gap Needed

I'm told there was a time in the English Mother of Parliaments when standing orders required that members' desks be at least two-and a half sword lengths apart. In our House, the gap between opposition and gov-ernment desks is wider; and there are days when this is just as well.

To illustrate, observe Premier Bennett and Cran-brook NDP Leo Nimsick on their feet and leaning to-ward each other, arguing about which was or wasn't present when hospital grants were debated.

Mr. Nimsick: "I was here when you weren't here!

Mr. Bennett (supply com-mittee chairman Murray's gavel rapping like a wood-pecker the while): "And I was here when you weren't Through it all, our three NDP lady members continue to set an example in parliamentary decorum. They re-proach but rarely, and then in temperate terms. Their speeches are pointed, practical, and usually short.

I'm half convinced, in fact, that the wheels of govern-ment would run smoother if our House had a larger dis-

After the Boom

THE DIEFENBAKER GOVERNment's claim that it has produced rapid economic growth in Canada without any large price increases ignores two facts.

The first is that the rate of economic growth here as in most parts of the world already is declining. The second is that the increased prices bound in the end to result from currency devaluation are only now beginning to work their way down to the retail level. In short, it is unrealistic to regard as normal, or reliable, the conditions existing in Canada during the last 12 months.

Mr. Per Jacobsson, managing director of the International Monetary Fund and one of the world's most respected economists, recently issued a warning which Canadians should heed:

"The extraordinary period (of economic growth) in the postwar world is now largely over; no country can count any longer on the high profit margins resulting from relatively low costs in relation to prices. In this new situation, as it appears early in 1963, business is still good; but it no longer has the same momentum and may have to be sustained . . . "

To meet this new situation, Mr. Jacobsson says, "increased attention will have to be given to a number of problems such as methods of taxation suitable for growth, flexible utilization of resources including labor, reduction of trade barriers . . . and the maintenance of stable money wages. The question of economic expansion will be in the future more a quescommon concern among nations than it has been in the past. In other words, the great postwar boom which ended for Canada in 1957 is now ending for the free world generally, and even for the prosperous Common Market nations of Europe.

Last year, however, Canada gained the immediate advantages of currency devaluation as cheaper Canadian dollar stimulated exports and discouraged imports. though the nation's over-all trade was still in huge deficit. Mainly for this reason the gross national product grew by 7 per cent after actually declining, on a per capita basis, in the previous five years.

The Financial Post concludes that "to judge by the sluggish behavior of most indicators of business activity, the Canadian economy is gently edging its way through a short-term decline in the business cycle." - While the current dip should be mild, the longer-term prospects, says The Post, must be reckoned against the worldwide con- 'PIOUS HUMBUGGERY' ditions that alarm Mr. Jacobsson.

Whatever the short-term Canadian business cycle may bring, the longer cycle of the world economy presents grave difficulties, especially for Canada which must increase its recent rate of economic growth substantially if it is to employ all its growing population.

Moreover, as The Post says, the stimulation provided by a cheaper British press from 1957 to 1963. It is dollar (which must raise prices also the painful memory of Canadians sooner or later) can be quickly lost who have talked to the many British if our costs of production are al- politicians, economists, businessmen and lowed to increase "Stable money wages," Mr. Jacobsson says, are essential if the current pause in the world economy is not to become a serious decline. They are especially vital to an exporting country like Canada.

All these things considered, it is premature and dangerous to argue that a country which still suffers from high employment and must create a million extra jobs, during the next five years is out of the woods. The great problems, though confused and distorted by an election debate, still lie ahead of us and we need a strong government to grapple with them.

To Let the Public Know

STUDENTS OF VICTORIA COL D lege, like their fellows at the University of British Columbia, are moved by the best of instincts when they seek to enlist public support for improvement of higher education in the province. In so doing, they are manifesting a "ginger" spirit in the tradition of college students around the world, and with a serious purpose. They are handicapped in their present campaign by lack of details respective institutions, and the amounts sought from the government for the coming year's academic activities. They nevertheless give loyal support to the men who drafted those budgets and those requests. The young people of the two universities have faith in the men who are running their institutions and in whose hands rests much of the develop-in British Columbia. Spokesmen for Victoria College students emphasize the fact that they are not staging a strike to support their case for higher operating payments by the government. They are not particularly impressed by the sacrifices entailed in skipping a lecture or two in order to circulate a petition and appear in a demonstration.

Like any group which takes a position on a contested issue, they are open to criticism and they should expect it. But they have one very important point in their favor.

Britain and the Faded Diefenbaker Image

disenchantment, to outright opposition—such has been the British reaction to Diefenbaker government in Canada, The tragic record of the image which was reversed is dismally reflected in the senior civil servants who are only too well informed about Canadian affairs.

The British government's disillusionment with the Diefenbaker govern-ment's policies—foreign and domestic has been well known for at least two years. What has more recently shocked Canadians abroad is the frank abandon with which Englishmen are now saying what they think,

British officials have broken the diplomatic nicetics to give vent to their feelings openly, if off the record, Britain's serious newspapers which before the 1962 election dared not tell Canadians how to vote are now editorializing bluntly: it is certainly in the British in terest—and, in their opinion, in the Canadian as well-that Mr. Diefenbaker be defeated.

It is this phenomenon which led Mr. Robert Estabrook, the editorial page editor of the Washington Post and a long-time friend of Canada, to open his Feb. 12 column from London with the comment: "It is scarcely exaggeration to say that fewer tears were shed over the fall of Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker than over the upset of any major Commonwealth political figure since Oliver Cromwell.

Part of the reason for Mr. Diefen baker's unpopularity with the British Conservative government, Mr. brook wrote, stemmed from his attitude oward the Common Market and "the impression here that he great deal without offering much help in Britain's predicament.' If so, how about our baby chicks, they only have two legs like our pure bred human kids. can I suppose bring home a bag of grain to feed the baby chicks, but not a bag of flour to feed our children.

Would some woman secretary in the reeves' offices draw this to the attention to the reeves who are too busy regulate the breeding of mammals of the human species on the farm? Do we have to have a licensed vehicle in order that we can truck in our children to have them shod, or can we only truck our horses to the blacksmith to have them shod?

If these said reeves are too busy read this newspaper I would ask as special favor of the farm women, that the secretaries in the town halls who work for these three gentlemen would kindly prompt them to make a statement which may be published in the two Victoria newspapers, so that we may know to what extent we are breaking the law when we pack home in our farm-licensed trucks feed and bedding for our own kids.

GOOD TERMS

Border Settlement

Manchester Guardian Weekly

UNDEFINED frontiers, particularly in the Himalayas, can be a menace to peace; by agreeing on the border between Sinklang and the Pakistan-held part of Kashmir the governments in Peking and Rawalpindi have reduced the danger of another wasteful conflict like that between China and India. This alone should be a matter for satisfac-tion, even in India; but in addition the Pakistanis have got very good terms.

They lose no territory at present administered by them; the only with-drawal is to be by the Chinese. Indeed, the line now fixed corresponds along much of its length—passes and all—with that claimed by the Indian government itself in its correspondence with Peking; the barren southern slopes of the Aghil mountains seem the only significant stretch of ground to be bar-

It can of course be argued that the Chinese have been so generous for malicious reasons; to upset Indo-Pakistani relations, to woo the Pakistanis from their Western commitments, above all to prove to the Indians once more how much they are missing by not com-

If so, it was up to the Pakistanis to make the most of these fortuitous diplomatic advantages, as they have done, tent with Pakistan's alliances and the two parties have safeguarded India's interests as far as they can by including a clause that provides for fresh negotiations if the Indo-Pakistani dispute over Kashmir is settled.

The Indian government and news naners nevertheless disapprove deeply, as they have all along indicated they would. It is also said (and American newspapers bear this out) that the United States government is disturbed; the agreement is thought likely to endanger the talks on Kashmir to be resumed next week. Perhaps it will.

But the Pakietanie may be excused for thinking that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. They have got very little from talks with India over the past decade or so, and the results of the present round are entirely specula-

There is still no evidence that India is ready to concede their minimum de mand.

Certainly the agreement with China may be used by India as a justification if the negotiations fail. But the Indian government has never been at a loss for such justifications in the past.

Long term foreign invest ments in Canada have increased 300 per cent since the end of the World War. According to the latest statistics available, 57 per cent of Canadian industrial wealth is already owned abroad, while in large undertakings (r quiring amounts of $25,000,000 and more) only 35.7 per cent among them are still under Canadian control. And it is not astonishing that, in the table of international debts interst and paid to non-residents reached $770,000, 000 in 1961.

It is not sugested by Mr. Vanier that all this is any reason to criticize the foreign investors who have placed their money in Canada, and are receiving the vield on those investments. On the contheir investments have been essential not only for the settlement of the deficit in our balance of international payments but also to develop our na tional resources

The fact that so much foreign investment has been found indispensable lies in the failure of Canadians to provide more capital by their own savings, and the failure of government policy over many years to give the necessary encouragement and incentive greater Canadian financial independence.

... REPORTING

ABOARD THE CAMPAIGN TRAIN - A andidate for the highest elective office in the land sits in the last car of this three-car special speeding through the blackness of a late winter night, thinking the lonely thoughts of those who hold-however tenu ously in his case-power and authority over nations and peoples.

Another candidate, on whom the mantle of power may fall on April 8 but who so far has not known its weight, sits in the after section of his chartered aircraft a thousand miles away. He too is being hurtled through the night in this quest for the same political grail, a parliamentary majority.

John Diefenbaker, looking his 67, sees himself as a leader with "an appointment with destiny." He is aloof—partly because of his preoccupation with his political anxieties, partly because of his inordinate suspiof people's intentions and motives, y because his wife tells him he has to look and act prime ministerial.

Lester Pearson, who at 65 has an incongruously boyish look that his tendency to lisp enhances, says whimsically that he feels like "a piece of political freight" as his schedule shunts him around the country. He is ebullient, convivial, buoyed by belief that has the election by the tail on a downhil

Diefenbaker has not accepted the people verdict of June 18 as any kind of reprimand "Anybody who is prime minister after an election is not defeated," he says. people thought we had too big a majority, and that it would be better if there were a stronger opposition. Well," he says, pausing for dramatic effect, "they just went a little too far!" He delivers his punch line with a laugh, and sympathetic laughter rolls back

His prime ministerial dignity won't let him kiss babies, although Uncle Looie St. Laurent could get away with that: their images are different. His hand-shaking sounds like a continuous recording: "Hello. How are you. Good to see you. Hello. How are . . ." But most people shaking hands with the prime minister are so flustered that with the prime minister are so flustered that he could be speaking Latin and they wouldn't know the difference.

Pearson is frankly conscious of his own shortcomings in the art of winning friends and influencing voters. "They tell me I'm not a very good TV actor. Well, I don't think it's necessary to be a good TV actor to give purpose to the direction of our national affairs," he says.

At Long Branch, Ont., where he stepped to socialize with Red Kelly's supporters, I saw him impulsively respond to music, and to his own good spirts, by taking the hands of the first woman he saw and launching into a lumbering dance. Like George Hees, the Liberal candidate is a warm, impulsive, human guy. But will the voters consider this a desirable prime ministerial quality?

One or the other, Diefenbaker or Pearson s almost certain to be the people's choice as orime minister. Any other outcome of the April 8 vote is highly unlikely.

Yet the feeling you get on the hustings s that most voters would prefer someone other than Diefenbaker or Pearson, someone in whose leadership they would have greater confidence. A Kennedy, perhaps. Or even Bob Thompson, if he weren't a Social have only scratched the surface. Believe me, there is more to cabbage than meets the corned beef. Did you know, for instance, that a cross-ection of a head of domestic cabbage looks like an aerial photograph of the Los Angeles freeway system? Domestic cabbage is one of five types of cabbage grown in the United States. The other four types are domestic, too, but they are called something else. They are called "Danish," "Pointed," "Red" and "Savoy."

If you would like to know more about cabbage, you can write to the superintendent

Where does the future of agriculture lie? It lies in the sea. Or so says a report pub-

As the world population increases, and land for cultivation grows scarcer, many crops likely will be grown on sea farms. This is called "hydrophonic farming."

The report says hydrophonic farming still is in its infancy, so I suppose it would be premature for farmers to start trading in their tractors for water wings. I felt I should mention it, however, for the benefit of those who like to plan ahead. Will cabbage float? I simply do not deepsea shipping channel laid Wednesday.

New Channel a Failure

out about five years ago be Lapt W. A. Gosse, chairman tween Vancouver, Island and of the B.C. Coast Pilots' Ad.

Capt. Gosse, said the idea. the B.C. mainland has been a ministrative Committee, said hasn't worked "and can't work failure, the federal royal committee the mile-wide channel was patrolled."

He told the three-man royal commission that during the July-September salmon fishing season the narrow waters be tween the island and the mainland often are virtually clogged by thousands of fish-boats and nets.

Testifying for the third straight day, the captain said the problem exists along the as far north as the Prince Rupert area.

REDUCE SPEED

A brief to the commission from the pilots' committee said large vessels often must "reduce speed and quite often stop until a channel is cleared through these fishing vessels."

The brief also sought an increase in pilotage dues to offset a decrease in individual earnings that would result from the addition of seven pilots to the present 66 man roster. Capt. Gosse said the suggested figure of seven is a minimum to bring individual workloads to a desirable level.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice Yves Bernier of the Quebec superior court, was shown graphic evidence of the importance of pilots — a pic-ture of a ship that ran aground last year near Prince Rupert.

Capt. Gosse said the ship had been to Prince Rupert only a couple of months prior to the mishap. The ship's master decided he could make port the second time without the aid of a pilot.

Capt. Gosse said the ship struck Barrett Rock near the entrance to the harbor in a fog despite the fact the almost new vessel was equipped with all modern navigational aids.

The hearing continued here today, with the commission reconvening in Prince Rupert Monday and Tuesday.

Trade Minister Warns of More Foreign Imports

TORONTO (UPI) - Trade Minister M. Wallace McCutcheon today warned Canadian business nien to improve their competitive position as soon as possible to meet an expected increase in foreign competition for this country's market.

McCutcheon, speaking to the consumer - producer conference said it was "urgent for Canadian business to improve its position.

"Canadian industry today is encountering increasing for-eign competition in the domes-tic market, and we have no assurance this will not be accelerated," he said.

If Canadian industry was to expand and provide employ-ment for a growing labor force it must achieve greater con-sumer acceptance in Canada. and greater exports would nat-urally follow, he said.

SOVIET MARS ROCKET 60 MILLION MILES 'OUT'

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet rocket shot to the planet Mars is reported more than 60,000,000 miles from the earth.

The half-ton space ship launched last Nov. 1 is travelling at a rate of about 864,000 miles a day. It is expected to reach the vicinity of Mars in late May, making the journey in seven months.

The latest announcement on the rocket's position by the official Tass news agency at the start of March gave the space ship's position at 52,522,000 miles from the earth.

Board members formally requested the provincial governnent to promulgate the Practical Nurses Act which was put on the statute books by the 1951 legislature but never was put into effect by the government.

It would establish a trainin and certification program for all practical nurses in public and private hospitals and nursing homes.

Board member Mrs. E. P Thomas said the act was supported by the registered nurses and doctor groups and would bring a uniform standard of qualifications for practical nurses.

She said no certificates are issued now to graduates of the province's three schools for practical nurses.

States sources said Wednesday SMALL ESTATES TAX EASEMENT

A bill which would ease the burden of provincial estate taxes on small estates under the new succession duty act introduced by B.C this session was put before the legislature Wednesday.

Details of the amending bill were not available, but Attorney-General Bonner said it will establish a tax free exemption on estates of $60,000 or less.

"It is aimed at ensuring that no one will be more heavily assessed than when the federal government con-trolled the death tax field," he said.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

The danger of doing something better than most people, as in Bruce Kidd, lies in the belief that your accomplishments and chosen sport actually gain a sort of nobility.

This was overwhelmingly apparent in a speech given by Mr. Kidd at a sports celebrity dinner in Toronto. Track, he said almost eccleciastically, is the one sport about which there is no pro-amateur sham, does not succeed or fall on mob psychological appeal and pits man against himself rather than man against man.

Several of the assorted guests who make used from baseball, football and billiards neafly choked on their parsiey. At that very moment it was 85 that the waiters would have to scrape Mr.

would have to scrape Mr. Kidd's carcass off the carpet with a paring knife.

ought to leaf back a few years. He would come across the case of Wes Santee of Kansas, Few men in his era could shuffle the mile faster. Nor did he have much competition in filling out expense account sheets Caught one day with his amateur halo down, Santee mysteriously disappeared from the foot racket. Mob psychology appeal? The mere sight of their flaxen-haired darling Armin Hary winning the 100 metres RICKY JOHNSON in the last Olympic Games prompted 80,000 West Germans to blast the skies with "HAR-Y! HAR-Y! HAR-Y!" Maybe they weren't being emotional. Perhaps they were only exercising their lungs.

Man against himself? There are countless sports, apart from track, where this applies. Consider-them all and then ponder one of the most difficult. Gymnastics.

Students Knew About Some Bars

"To excelf in gymnastics," says Arthur Burgess," you need intelligence, courage and strength."

Mr. Burgess is the master of the ballet on bars, etc., at Victoria YMCA. He is 34, wiry, blackhaired, and wears a nose which suggests he has missed the landing pad occasionally while doing triple somersaults.

Gymnastics in Canada, he said, were not widely embraced up until about 10 years ago. Generally, our attitude was that since we as a nation hadn't done anything outstanding in competition, there was no reason to consider spoiling the record.

"Then a pair of German immigrants, Hans Gerbig and Helmut Haas stepped off the boat, discovered that the Canadian championships were on in Montreal and entered. They were badly out of shape but they won in a breeze.

That's how weak we were."

Happily the Germans migrated to University of B.C. where they exposed hitherto_unknown concepts of gymnastics to students who knew little about bars except Gradually schools in B.C. began adding equipment and qualified instructors. Last year Oak Bay installed stainless steel gym equipment in Carnarvon Park, probably on the premise that it is better for youth to be on the bars than behind them. Victoria Y, ever since the days of Archie McKinnon, has emphasized bar work, along with swimming and track, as ideal components leading to physical fitness.

He Nose Gymnastics Aren't Easy

Olympic or even top Canadian competition went down the drain in the Second-World ruckus. Three of his best never made it home from the battlefields.

Interest waned here. It was barely audible elsewhere in Canada either. Curvy, blonde Ernestine Russell of Windsor was the only Canadian to cut up anywhere. Still in the world championships at Russia you needed a telescope to find her. She finished 18th. Now, Mr. Burgess was saying, his main problem, is Now, Mr. burgess was saying, in main problem, is curb the enthusiasm of his flock. "Just the other day I had to stop a 13-year-old trying an exercise he wasni ready for. He kept landing on his nose."

Y's hard floor with their beaks, who make Burgess want to execute a back somersault with half twist just thinking

There is Mike Blades, 13, Lon Mitchell, 12, and Richard William Kenneth Johnson, 14.

Mitchell and Blades excel in various phases. Ricky Johnson attacks all aspects of gym work with pug-nosed ferocity as if they are something to be beaten down,

How to Demoralize the Teacher

"I took him out to the trampoline not long ago," says Burgess," and described to him as I tramped how to do a front layout somersault with a half-twist. It's called the Baroni. I never learned to do it well and I've been trying for 10 years. In 10 bounces—not 10 minutes—Ricky did it flawlessly Does he work at it or is it a sometime thing? Burgess grinned. "He's here so often, if we offered him a room his mother would probably take us up on it."

Burgess' problem is not bodies or time as much as equipment and facilities. No matter how you shake it, the best gymnastic facilities on Vancouver Island are at Victoria YMCA. And they haven't changed much since they were installed in 1910.

Within three years Victoria will have a lustrous new Y and—if the budget can stand it—new equipment. This could provide tads like Richard Johnson with the springboard to vault to international fame.

If he does he will be the first. No native-born Canadian has ever found out how it is on the top of the mountain looking down.

COMMERCIAL FISHING FEE

Limit-Breaker Costs Only $1

fishermen in the past Ara, years, the Amalgamated Con-servation Society is waging a campaign to obtain a more equitable share of coho and spring salmon for sportsmen and to protect the future of B.C. salmon fishing.

Representing 12 Lower Island organizations, members of the society have drawn up a list of proposals they believe would benefit the salmon fishery.

These proposals have been incorporated in a brief, presented to J. Angus MacLean, federal minister of fisheries, and later distributed to almost 300 interested individuals and organizations.

Because of the widespread interest of Island anglers in the ACS campaign, The Daily Times is printing the brief in daily installments.

Here is the fifth installment:

COMMERCIAL LICENCE

Many people refer to the $1.00 commercial fishing licence as a legal limit-breaker. It costs $2.00 for a trout licence to fish for sport while a person could make $20,000. a year with a $1.00 commercial licence. Compare the cost of a truck licence, taxi licence or a business licence for a retail store or any other type of business and the cost of the commercial fishing licence is ridiculous. Many sports fishermen earning a good wellhood take out a commercial fishing licence just to break limits or use same for a tax saving. The majority of commercial fishermen as well as all sports fishermen would welcome a large increase in the fee to discourage moonlighters and limit breakers.

This society requests a substantial increase be added to the cost of a commercial fishing licence. Extra monies derived from this source of revenue could be used for conservation purposes,

It has been suggested that one way to get the Government to increase the cost of the commercial licence is to urge all sportsmen to apply for same. Apparently the only qualification is the applicant must be a Canadian citizen or has been a member of the armed forces. If increasing the cost of a commercial licence would adversely effect fishermen in Eastern Canada with lower income potential, than West Coast counterparts—the increase could be limited

There should be immediate action on dual fishing licences as past surveys have indicated an alarming in crease in this practice during the past year. Commercial fishermen should be limited to only one type of fishing licence at a time and when a second type of licence is required the first should be surrendered for the remainder

Every avenue should be explored to limit the amount of commercial fishing licences issued, as the industry is already overcrowded. A method of licensing of boats would be a step in the right direction. This would provide a deter-rent to boat owners who disregard fishery regulations as this licence could be cancelled. This licence would supplement the licencing of individuals but should not be in

Spot closures should be instituted in some B.C. coastal waters as large amounts of young coho are hooked in nursery areas and many drown before release.

A moderate estimate is at least five times as many young coho are hooked in comparison to spring salmon, unless trollers check their gear continuously the mortality of these immature salmon is extremely high through drowning. When evidence that large amounts of young coho salmon are being hooked spot closures should be placed in effect wherever feasible

This society supports the alternative motion contained in the conference of co-ordination on U.S. and Canadian fishery regulations agreement, which reads as follows: The appointed committee endorses the principle of setting aside tervals, as the necessity determines by study of local conditions. The above motion is a bilateral U.S. Canadian alternative agreement should convervation of pre-coho and under-size ing salmon be threatened outside the surf-line as agreed to by the signatories of both countries

Barkley Sound now open when West Coast closure is in effect should be considered West Coast waters and closed to commercial trolling October 31 each year. Barkley Sound supports large amounts of immature spring salmon during the winter months and should be closed for the same

The 26-inch West Coast salmon size minimum should be applied to all commercial troll ing operations, including Juan de Fuca Strait and the Gulf of Georgia, as these areas are travelling grounds for the juve nile spring salmon during win ter months and are the major ity of salmon caught by trollers during this period. (To be continued.)

RESTRICTIONS

Previously, any B.C. com-panies faced restrictions on in-vestments which limited in-come possibilities.

The Insurance Act changes, given first reading in the legislature, also provide for uniform automobile insurance coverage across Canada.

However, these clauses of the legislation come into effect upon proclamation by the cabinet—this could be any time.

There are two provisions The first would make insur-ance liability "pink cards" effective in any province.

The second would ensure that insurance companies paid the minimum amount of com-pensation required in any province-even if this was less than that paid for by the motorist in his home province.

Naked Animal Drive Stunt To Sell Disc

NEW YORK (AP)-The Society for Indecency to Naked Animals shaped up Wednesday as a stunt to promote the sale of a new record.

The society reaped publicity last week when its pickets circled the White House with placards asking President Kennedys wife: "Won't you please clothe your horse for decency?"

Vice-president (and picket) Bruce Spencer said that SINA was a band of 50,000 moralists headed by C. Clifford Prout Jr. of New York. Prout's late father had left $400,000 to institute an organization dedicated to the proposition that "all ani-mals should wear clothing for the sake of decency," Spencer said, and Prout was carrying out his father's wishes

One plaint heard by newsmen with monotonous regularity is that they've taken so-and-so's very fine speech or his wife's excellent report to the women's auxiliary, and crowded it into the merest nutshell.

"Why," we're asked, "didn't you print it in full, or at least, give it the attention it deserved?"

"Lack of space," is the usual answer; and believe me, that's no lie.

Newspapers are elastic only to a point, and I doubt that any daily in the land manages to accommodate more than about five per cent of the total wordage that floods in upon it. Day's end finds a newsroom floor carpeted with the stuff that didn't get in, and all wastebaskets overflowing.

But as regards the Hon. Mr. Snerk's speech and his wife's report, there's a further reason why those 16 lovingly prepared and rehearsed pages get boiled down to three paragraphs.

Management frowns on such practices, but reporters from rival papers have been known to help each other out when an opposite number gets called away by domestic crisis, over-dry tonsils or some such.

Unfailingly, when the defaulter returns to duty, the question he asks is, "Did Snerk say anything?"

Not "What did he say?" mark you! It's assumed that the Hon. Mr. Snerk said plenty. The reporter's question, born of lengthy experience with public speakers, assumes that most if not all of the verbiage wasn't worth noting.

What he's asking is, "Did the guy say anything that matters?"

There is no speech—and not even such an immortal as Winston Churchill stands exempt—that is good red meat from the first throat-clearing to the final "I thank

But it is by no means a purely naval operation. In time of war, civilian ship-ping men would request bottoms for various types of cargoes, also order refit and repair periods. They would operate from Ottawa and in conjunction with allied shipping pools.

Rock Wall Crash Claims Second Life

A second person has died as a result of injuries received when a car plowed head-on into a rock escarp-ment at Douglas and Blanshard early Sunday.

Mrs. Frances Kraft, 39, whom police said apparently was driver of the car, died shortly before midnight in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her passenger, Stanley A. Ball, 44, died 90 minutes after being taken to the hospital after the crash at about 1:50 a.m.

SHOPPING GUIDE

New Teen-Age Fashions Wearable and Washable By PENNY SAVER

Yes, Penny really did see machine washable suits bearing price tags $12.95. But they have one limitation—you have to be a teen ager or a petite adult to fit into them.

The material, serrano, resembles a mixture of linen and rayon. \neg It is crease-resistant and to freshen it up you just toss the suit in the machine.

The short box jacket with an Eisenhower blouse effect at back fits neatly over a straight skirt. Any teen-ager would love to step out in one of these neat suits in either turquise, rose or yellow.

Latest in teenage shirts is striped with a white collar-less band around the neck. They look exactly like a shirt grandpa were in the morning before he put on the stiff-collar to hold up his chin.

Chanel jackets in figured fabrics or knits are only $8.95.
They make a smart topper for any plain skirt.

Italian knit stretchy sweaters in all-wool proved to be so popular last year that a new shipment was ordered and has just arrived. For those who do not know these sweaters they are knit in a rib pattern and once you put them on the waist stays put. A coachman-style cardigan is $11.95 and a pullover $10.95.

Don't forget St. Patrick's Day is just around the corner. Pure Irish linen tea towels with a Dublin scene costs only $1.25. They are gay to hang on the kitchen wall and later make the finest drying towels.

Green peppermint popcorn at 50 cents a half pound is use to make a hit at any party. And chocolates have been oxed in shamrocks just for the day.
